

Idaho Academy of Family Physicians
2022 Legislative Report
Week 9, March 7 – March 11

Things moving Fast and Furious

The self-imposed “transmittal” deadline passed on Monday, March 7, and both houses have been suspending rules and working to get bills moved to the other side of the rotunda. As I noted last week, the legislature DOES seem intent on making their self-imposed March 25 adjournment target date.

JFAC sets GME funding budget

The Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee on Friday morning set the GME budget through the State Board of Education. The committee went above the Governor’s recommendation to add an additional 14 residency slots by adding an additional seven, for a total of 21 new residency slots. This is an effort to get caught up on the ten-year plan that had fallen slightly behind the last couple years. An actual bill will be introduced sometime next week that includes this budget and I will give more detail next week. The bill would still need to be passed by both houses and signed by the Governor to go into effect.

Reminder: order of Bills on our list

The following bills are in order to first include new bills introduced this week, followed by bills that in my estimation appear to have momentum, followed by bills that have become law, then those that appear to have been stalled or not likely to advance.

New bills introduced this week:

S1381: Coronavirus Pause Act, by Sen. Winder and others

Establishes limitations on private and public entities to impose a requirement that individuals receive a coronavirus vaccination. Entities that receive Medicare or Medicaid payments are exempt. Terms of this law expire one-year after the emergency declaration has ended for coronavirus. (Governor announced this week he will declare end of said emergency effective April 15).

Status: Passed out of Senate State Affairs committee on March 10, to full Senate for action.

H756 (formerly H712): Crisis standards of Care, by Rep. Blanksma

Charges the Department of Health and Welfare with the responsibility of limiting the duration and scope of crisis standards of care and developing long term strategies for dealing with surges in health care capacity need. It requires both the facility requesting crisis standards of care declaration and the Department to make reports to include mitigation plans for limiting the scope and duration of crisis standards of care.

Status: Introduced on March 10, awaiting action in House Health and Welfare.

MEDICAL PRACTICE – Medical-related topics

items that could affect your medical practice or your patients might ask about, or your patients might benefit from knowing
